

Rhonda Morton

As a Visionary-Driver, Rhonda Morton makes ideas manifest.

Rhonda has created businesses, engineered solutions to societal problems, directed improvisational performance ensembles, published three books, and raised two children into adulthood. She understands how to get things done and knows what gets in the way: ingrained patterns, an inability to see a new path, and lack of systems and structures to support transformation.

Through Savannah Consulting, Rhonda weaves together her entrepreneurial experience, insider view of business operations, InterPlay and FEBC certifications, and the skills of improvisational performance to open up a 360-degree horizon of possibility for individuals and teams. Her work is fueled by brain-body-behavior linkages that make change easy and engaging.

Savannah Consulting clients include business people committed to lasting, systemic transformation of their workplaces; social entrepreneurs who are making the world a better place; and artists whose ideas simply must be born.
